Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

IN fairness to Chief Justice C. E. Johnson of the Arkansas Supreme Court, whom we have attacked editorially, we are publishing this pertinent part of an open letter he has addressed to the editors of the state:

Spain's Army, in Mountains, Plans a Rebel Roundup

Government Forces Apparently Increasing Hold on Revolutionists

FOREIGNERS FLEE

Cruiser Quincy to Take Away 100 Who Have Reached Spanish Port

MADRID, Spain.—(AP)—Spain's loyal guards and militiamen bolstered their mountain positions Monday and struck on four fronts for the complete surrender of the Fascist rebel troops.

Carrying on their "defense of the public and proletarian rights" the loyalists consolidated their victories in the Guadarrama mountains northwest of Madrid and at the northeastern seaport of Barcelona.

Simultaneously the government denied reports that it was planning to hand over complete power to the Socialists.

Foreigners Rescued

MADRID, Spain.—(AP)—After a week of terror, huddled in their embassies, American and British refugees were being evacuated to Alicante, on the southeast coast of Spain, Monday.

The government placed a special train at their disposal.

Unconfirmed reports said two British women refugees were violently assaulted by rioters before they found sanctuary in the embassy.

Cruiser Quincy on Way

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Bound to the rescue of more than 100 Americans and other foreigners from Madrid, the American cruiser Quincy steamed Monday toward the seaport of Alicante, where the refugees were reported taken by train.

23 More Evacuated

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—An increasingly alarming situation in Spain prompted American Consul William W. Corcoran Monday to advise the Department of State that he was evacuating 23 Americans and Cubans on a British cruiser.

Driver Falls Asleep, Truck Is Wrecked

8 of Negro Baseball Team Hurt as Truck Leaves Road Near Guernsey

A truck loaded with a Texarkana negro baseball team turned over near Guernsey on the Hope-Fulton pavement at 5 a. m. Monday, injuring eight of the players, none seriously.

A Hope Furniture company ambulance was called to the scene, but it was decided that the players would continue to Texarkana for treatment.

The team was en route home from Little Rock when the driver is believed to have fallen asleep, causing the vehicle to leave the road.

3 Car Crashes on Third Street, But None Is Injured

Chief Ridgill to Recommend Additional Stop-Signs on No. 67

WEEK-END REPORT

Two Accident Occur Here on Saturday, and Third One on Monday

Three week-end automobile collisions, attributed directly to lack of stop signs leading into Third street, Monday prompted Chief of Police John Ridgill to announce he would seek action when the city council meets Tuesday night.

Chief Ridgill said that he would "push" for additional stop signs be placed at streets leading into Third in an effort to eliminate an increasingly dangerous traffic hazard.

Two of the crashes occurred Saturday and the third Monday morning.

A tourist, driving into Third from a side street, crashed into an automobile driven by Hollis Luck. The crash occurred late Saturday afternoon.

No one was hurt, but a fender on Luck's car was smashed. The accident occurred at Third and Hervey.

Just before Luck's car was hit two trucks collided near Hope Steam laundry. One of the trucks was driven by Doc Keith. A negro was driving the other truck.

No one was hurt, but both trucks were damaged badly.

The third crash occurred Monday morning when a car driven by a Texas tourist struck a vehicle driven by Harry Segnar, Jr.

Four persons on both cars were damaged. No one was hurt.

The council, at its last regular meeting, voted to erect a stop-and-go light signal at Third and Main streets.

Name Winners in County Meeting

Shover Springs Winners Are Eligible to Attend State Club Camp

The third annual Farm and Home Forum for farmers and farm women was held Thursday, July 23, at Shover Springs with the Shover Home Demonstration club at host.

The welcome address was given by LeVeta England of Shover and the response by Mrs. C. P. Zimmerman of Melrose. Dr. W. H. Metzler, professor of rural economics and sociology, University of Arkansas, speaking on "The Rural Home in the present economic and social set up," and L. C. Baber, district farm agent, who spoke on "The Farm Organization," were chief features on the morning program.

Mrs. O. A. McKnight of Bright Star Home Demonstration club, vice-president of the county council, presided over the morning program. Mrs. D. E. Goodlett, president of the county council, presided over the afternoon program. George Ware, director of the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station, spoke on "Home Orchards," Craig Roseborough, superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service with headquarters in Hope, spoke on "Soil Conservation."

A special attraction of the afternoon program was a style revue by home demonstration club members.

Miss Faye Samuel, Allen club, was first-place winner in the cotton house dress; Mrs. J. K. Green, Ozan, St. Paul club, took first-place in the afternoon ensemble contest; Mrs. O. L. Roberts, Melrose club, won first place in the children's clothing contest.

The winners are eligible for a trip to the State Home Demonstration Club camp at Camp Pine near Little Rock, September 1-4. Mrs. Katherine Marr, home demonstration agent, Nevada club, Mrs. Tommie Stone Worth, home demonstration agent, Miller club, and Miss Fannie Jane Elmore, of Washington, were judges.

Mrs. D. E. Goodlett sang "When I Grow Too Old To Dream," by special request. Special music was furnished by the WPA string band.

The fourth quarterly conference of the county council of home demonstration clubs will meet November 7 at Hope with the Rocky Mount and Melrose clubs as host clubs.

Booker Washington, Jr., Speaks on Monday Night

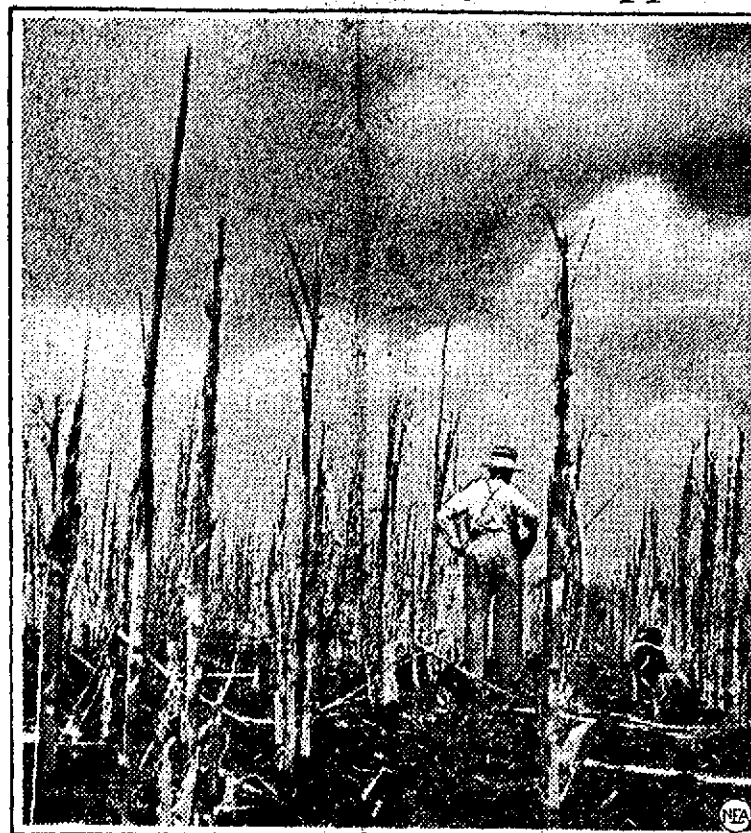

Booker T. Washington, Jr., son of the late Booker T. Washington who founded Tuskegee Institute, will speak at Bebe Memorial C. M. E. church, North Hazel street, at 8 p. m. Monday.

Special seats have been arranged for white persons who desire to attend. The public is invited.

Program at Patmos

A musical program will be given Tuesday night at the home of Grady Rodgers, Patmos Route Two. The public is invited.

'Twas a Fine Crop—for 'Hoppers!

Row upon row of gaunt, puffed stalks, every vestige of leaf and straw stripped from them by voracious grasshoppers—this was the dismal scene that greeted Charles E. Geiger, pioneer Oklahoma farmer, when, as shown above, he visited his bottomland cornfield near Blackwell, Okla. With the ravages of 'hoppers and drought combining to destroy forage and feed crops for winter use, Geiger admitted he had never seen anything like it in all his 71 years.

Hempstead Tour Is Opened at Patmos

At Spring Hill Tuesday—Nevada Candidates at Rosston Tuesday

Patmos and Bodesaw township turned out about 500 strong for the opening of the 1936 Hempstead county stump tour at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The 25 candidates for county office were to continue through the afternoon in all-day engagement, the first of 16 speaking dates which will carry the campaigners into every township.

The daily debate is being reported in full by The Star, the Patmos account to appear in the next edition. The Star also took photographs of the crowd at Patmos Monday noon, and the pictures will be published later in the week.

Tuesday the Hempstead county campaigners will put in another full day addressing the voters at Spring Hill.

Wednesday the stump tour moves to Guernsey, for daylight speaking; and moves back to Hope for the first night address Wednesday night, beginning at 7 o'clock.

On Thursday the tour goes to Columbus for an all-day session; and on Friday the candidates will put on another double-bill, speaking during the day at Sanatoga, and at 7 o'clock Friday night at Fulton.

The first week will come to a close with an all-day session Saturday at Ozan.

In Nevada county the candidates are speaking at Pleasant Hill schoolhouse Monday night.

The Nevada county men will go to Rosston Tuesday night, Bluff City Wednesday night, Fulton on Thursday, and will close the week at Cole Friday night.

All Nevada county engagements are at night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Star photographed with its photo-flash equipment the third engagement of the Nevada tour, when the candidates appeared at Lanesburg last Friday night, and these pictures will be published in the city edition Wednesday (Thursday morning's mail edition).

Revival Meeting to Begin Monday

The Rev. Bill Couch to Conduct Campaign at Fifth and Elm Sts.

The city-wide tent revival which is to be conducted by Rev. Bill Couch will begin Monday at 8 o'clock. The tent is located at Fifth & Elm streets.

Although this meeting is not being sponsored by any local church or organization, Rev. Couch is a graduate of Ouachita Baptist college at Arkadelphia, having completed his work there in 1935.

Arrangements have been made for a large chorus choir, and congregational singing will be emphasized.

Members of the quartet of the First Baptist church will also bring a special number Monday night.

Drouth Marches on Through West

Rain Falls to Appear and District's Crop Losses Steadily Increase

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Skies over the Middle West and Northwest drouth areas hold only scattered clouds Monday to ward off the sun which for many arid weeks has wrought staggering damage to the corn and wheat crops.

There were no general rains in sight for Monday or Tuesday said Forecaster J. R. Lloyd.

Karpis and His Pal Get Life Sentences

Gangster Confirms Guilt of Pfeifer, 3rd Man, in Final Statement

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(AP)—Alvin Karpis and Charles Fitzgerald, participants in the $100,000 William Hamm, Jr., kidnapping, were sentenced to life terms Monday by Federal Judge Hoyce.

Both had pleaded guilty earlier. Before sentence was imposed Karpis declared:

"Jack Pfeifer is absolutely guilty because I know the circumstances."

Allred Sweeps to Victory in Texas

Senator Sheppard Follows Governor With Tremendous Margin

DALLAS, Texas.—(AP)—Jimmy Allred, whose advance to political prominence has embraced periods as a bootlegger, bootblack and sailor, Sunday watched his majority in the governor's race grow to proportions which virtually assured his re-election.

The Texas Election Bureau in a compilation of 77,424 votes cast in the Democratic primary yesterday credited Allred with 402,006. His nearest competitor and fellow townsman, Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, had 176,819. Hunter was defeated by Allred two years ago.

The vote also recorded a big drop in the political potency of James E. Ferguson, former governor, who dominated Texas politics for many years. Ferguson took the stump in the farming areas to support Roy Sanderford, state senator. Sanderford was running a poor fourth in the field of five.

P. W. Fischer, Tyler oil man and newcomer to the state political scene, was third with 109,323 votes and Sanderford trailed him with 62,065. Pierce Brooks of Dallas was last with 25,461.

Morris Sheppard, United States senator from Texas, continued to pile up his tremendous majority over a field of five. He held 437,666 votes compared to the 90,039 of the man nearest him, Representative Joe Eagle of Houston.

Eleven congressmen apparently won re-election without a runoff but several others, including the veteran Thomas Blanton of the Seventeenth District failed to receive a majority.

Gunters' Sawmill at M'Nab Burns; Damage Is $15,000

Hope Firemen Save Thousands of Feet of Stacked Lumber Nearby

TO REBUILD MILL

Replacement in 30 to 40 Days—Mill Employs 75 to 100 Men

Fire Sunday morning swept through Gunters' sawmill, near McNab, causing a loss estimated by company officials of $15,000. No insurance was carried.

Officials announced plans for the immediate rebuilding of the plant. The mill employed from 75 to 100 men. The mill was established three years ago.

Cause of the fire is unknown. It started at the rear of the plant and spread quickly. The Hope Fire department was called to the scene but was hampered because of difficulty in reaching a water pond.

Firemen succeeded in confining the blaze to the main part of the mill, saving thousands of feet of stacked lumber nearby.

Frank Gunter, sales manager, told The Star over the telephone Monday that 20 or 40 days would be required to replace the mill. Work on rebuilding will start at once, he said.

The mill is located in the northwestern part of the county, being about equal distance between McNab and Columbus. The fire was discovered about 9 a. m. Sunday.

5 Negroes Burn to Death at Helena

All Are Trapped as Early Morning Blaze Envelopes 3 Frame Houses

HELENA, Ark.—(AP)—Five negroes were burned to death here Monday when flames swept a row of three small frame houses in the negro section of the city.

All of the victims occupied the house in which the fire started, and were apparently trapped when it was suddenly enveloped in flames before dawn.

Eight Plead Guilty in Municipal Court

Assault and Drunkenness Charges Are Disposed of by Judge Lemley

Eight defendants pleaded guilty to drunkenness and assault charges in a short session of municipal court Monday which was held at 8 a. m.

There were no trial cases, all defendants pleading guilty except those who asked for continuation of charges against them.

The results: W. I. Stroud pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disturbing the peace. He was fined $10 for drunkenness and $2.50 for disturbing the peace.

An assault and battery charge against Rosie Lee Low, negro woman, was continued to August 3.

George Waddell, pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was fined $10.

Charlie Pointdexter and Tom Northem forfeited $10 cash bonds when they failed to appear for drunkenness.

M. E. Perkins was fined $10 for drunkenness, but the penalty was suspended by Judge Lemley on good behavior.

Ex-Governor Ely to Oppose F. D. R.

Massachusetts Political Factor to Attend Convention of "Antis"

WESTFIELD, Mass.—(AP)—Former Governor Joseph Ely of Massachusetts said Monday he expected to attend a meeting of Democrats opposed to President Roosevelt's re-election in Detroit August 7.

Ely asserted he assumed the purpose of the meeting was to consider plans for the campaign against the president's re-election.

Turned Brown

By Brown Turner

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark.—(Special)—This is the place West Tennesseeans come to when creek juice becomes unbearable.

So where a Minnesota woman who writes pieces for her county paper has been declared the best rural reporter in the nation and wins a trip to New York and $200 in large bills. Its sort of hacking, but when one walks into the newsrooms of some of the larger papers he thinks he's blundered into a seminary by mistake. Looks like it won't be long now till the hardest work a man will do is wind the alarm clock so his wife will be able to get to work on time.

Arthur Johnson to Speak Here Monday

Gubernatorial Candidate to Deliver Address at 8 p. m. at City Hall

Arthur J. Johnson fourth gubernatorial candidate to visit Hempstead county, is scheduled to deliver an address at 8 p. m. Monday from the Hope city hall steps.

The three who have preceded Johnson to Hope are R. A. Cook, Tom Terrell and John C. Ashley.

Mr. Johnson is a state senator of Star City, Lincoln county. His campaign committee said that he was not affiliated with any candidate for state office.

He is a business man, lawyer and state senator. His committee said that he was offering voters of Arkansas a program and platform of construction.

84 Highway Deaths for the Week-End

But Traffic Toll for First Half-Year Is Less Than a Year Ago

By the Associated Press
A grade crossing accident at Hamilton, O., in which nine persons were killed, contributed to a total of at least 84 deaths in the United States in automobile accidents over the week-end.

The Census Bureau at Washington reported that for the first 23 weeks of this year, the nation's traffic deaths total was 4,188, as compared with 4,578 for the same period in 1935.

In New York, the Grand Street Boys' Association offered a gold medal for the person who is found to have driven longest without an accident or a "ticket."

City Gas Plant in Texarkana Voted

Texas Side Approves $1,200,000 Bond Issue for Undertaking

TEXARKANA, Texas.—Resident taxpayers of Texarkana, Texas, Saturday authorized by a vote of 1046 to 593, the issuance of a $1,200,000 bond issue with which to construct a municipal gas distributing system, according to the unofficial returns from the 11 city boxes participating in the special election.

The majority of the boxes voting for the election was decisive. Every box voting for the proposal, while no boxes opposed it. The majority in favor of the proposal was 433 votes.

Mayor William V. Brown immediately announced that the city council would meet Monday night in a special session to canvass the votes and to award the construction and material contracts. He was jubilant over the results of the election and said "the public had not been fooled."

"Notwithstanding the expense of thousands of dollars," he said, "the public was not fooled by the misrepresentation and misstatements made by those who opposed us. It is a great victory for the city."

Dr. C. D. Johnson Becomes a Dean in Mississippi

BLUE MOUNTAIN, Miss.—Dr. Charles D. Johnson, Chairman of the Education Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention became dean of Blue Mountain college, September 1, according to Dr. Lawrence T. Lowrey, president of the college.

Dr. Johnson is vice-president of Arkansas A. & M. college, Monticello, Ark., and was formerly president of Ouachita College, Arkadelphia, Ark. He was seven years head of the School of Commerce and Journalism at Baylor University in Texas, and a Fellow in the University of Missouri.

Veterans of politics saw in the step taken by Mr. Cazort a potent weapon for dealing with leaders in many counties, since both he and Mr. Bailey are ex-officio members of the state Board of Election Commissioners. ### Revenue Bureau's Auditor Launches Bolt From Ashley

Serious Split Appears in Ranks of Administration as Election Nears

CAZORT TO BAILEY

Lieut.-Gov. Cazort Quits Race—Futrell Endorses Senator Ashley

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—R. W. (Bob) Parrish, former Chicot county circuit clerk, resigned Monday as auditor for the State Revenue Department, declaring he could not conscientiously support John C. Ashley, the administration candidate, in the governor's race.

The Arkansas Democrat described Parrish's action as "another defection in the ranks of the Futrell administration group in the State Revenue Department."

"It was learned Monday that other employees in this and other departments at the state capitol are contemplating similar action since Senator Ashley was named as the man of the administration," the Democrat said.

The newspaper said Parrish indicated he would become associated with the campaign of Carl Bailey.

Cazort Goes to Bailey

LITTLE ROCK.—Another rift in the Futrell administration ranks was bared Sunday night as Lieut. Gov. Lee Cazort dropped out of the governor's race with a terse statement conceding that "the rank and file of Democrats in Arkansas want Carl Bailey for governor."

He added that he hoped his friends would join him in supporting William H. General Bailey.

Shortly after Mr. Cazort's announcement, the headquarters of Senator John C. Ashley released the following endorsement of him by Governor Futrell:

"Unimportant as it is, from continuing numerous inquiries, there appears to be a sharp controversy as to whether Judge Ashley is acceptable to me as a candidate for governor. To end this controversy and eliminate further correspondence on this point, my answer is yes. This position is based upon my service with Judge Ashley in the Senate during the last session of 1913 and 1915, and his record in the Senate during my administration."

"Judge Ashley actively and effectively supported the several measures which put the state on a cash basis, restored its credit and saved the homes of people from foreclosure in the road improvement district."

The Futrell administration is bitterly opposed to Mr. Bailey, who has repeatedly denounced its political policies, whereas Mr. Cazort, as presiding officer of the senate, has co-operated fully in the governor's legislative program, and was regarded as having a strong claim to aid from the administration.

Sequel to Administration

The action by Mr. Cazort, though it would have been viewed as outside the realm of possibility at the start of the campaign, bore out predictions in recent weeks that when the administration settled upon its candidate, others who believed they were entitled to this support would not become reconciled.

Lieutenant Governor Cazort, declined to elaborate upon his prepared statement, and said nothing indicative of bitterness toward statehouse officials who have the past week after many conferences to determine where to place administration strength.

Mr. Cazort's statement follows: "I have made an honorable and vigorous campaign, but it is apparent to me that to continue would be hopeless. It has become increasingly evident in the past week that the rank and file of the Democrats in Arkansas want Carl Bailey for governor. I am accepting that attitude of the people. I wish I had words at my command to express my gratitude to the loyal friends who have stood by me, and it is my heartfelt wish that they will join with me in supporting Carl Bailey."

Attorney General Bailey made no comment upon Mr. Cazort's withdrawal other than to say that he had "counted Lee among my personal friends for a long time" and that he was glad political differences would not stand between them on August 11.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

When a child is restless at night, when its teeth seem to itch acutely, when the child has other vague complaints which differ from those of the infectious diseases, mothers are likely to explain the symptoms by the short, ugly word, "worms."

Most of the worms that get into the human body come by way of contaminated food or water, except the hookworm, which has a special route. The ordinary round worms and pinworms get in by way of the gastro-intestinal tract.

When it is realized that one first-class female worm can produce 200,000 eggs a day, the possibility of contamination is evident. In the United States, the contamination with round worms is more common in the south-east and also in central Kentucky and Tennessee.

Tapeworms usually are the result of eating contaminated fish and meat. When the eggs of the hookworm go from human beings into the soil, they develop in from five to eight days. Then the larvae get into the unbroken skin of the feet and are carried upward so that they invade the body, eventually doing most of their damage to the intestines.

The pinworm is most annoying of all the worms, as it affects the greatest number of people. This is a whitish, round worm, usually found in the lower part of the bowels, but occasionally in the stomach and mouth. Sometimes, when these worms develop in the lower part of the body, they actually crawl out and are visible on the external orifices.

One of the chief symptoms of pinworm infection is itching, which usually is worst at night. The irritation caused by the worms results in scratching, with the possibility of secondary infection. For prevention of all kinds of worms, real cleanliness is of greatest importance. Physicians prescribe medicines which are specific for each type of worm, and cause them to die so that they pass out of the body.

Unless the source of the worm infestation can be found, it is advisable to use only food and liquids which have been thoroughly cooked. Once a child is cured, it is necessary to prevent reinfection. For this purpose the fingernails should be kept short and clean. For a while enemas of castile soap and water will help to keep the bowel clean.

Any parent who suspects that her child has worms should make certain of a thorough investigation by a doctor and provide persistent care until the condition is eliminated and under control.

Some Other Bark Kettles
Annie loses her parking knife. Auntie comes over to see if she has left her rain-cake. Grandpa, even Grandpa, who never loses anything, can't find the article he wants to re-read to Dad from the morning paper, and later finds it in the evening paper he has just laid down. Grandma and her disappearing thimble or the big knitting-needle she "most certainly put in her sewing-table drawer," but now finds most unexplainably slipped under the cover of the swing; exactly where she put them when the storm came up.

Children should be taught order and memory, but are they the only professional losers, I wonder? If Johnny loses a dime we never let up on him. But if we lose a dollar he sure will have an air-puff alibi. I do think we set up standards occasionally for children that we don't try to practice ourselves. Example is the best precept, but a little of our self-forgetting might include Johnny once in awhile too.

through their eyes. The result is a rich and fascinating book. He tells of Lamarck, who anticipated so much of Darwin and who has had to wait until the present day for his rightful dues; of colonial John Bartram, who had the Shenandoah valley all to himself and found it so richly carpeted with flowers; of Darwin, who battled a lifetime of all mankind.

An Amateurish "First"
John Steinbeck established himself as one of the most individual and readable of modern writers with his excellent novel, "Tortilla Flat." He added to his reputation with his next one, "In Dubious Battle." Now his first novel—"Cup of Gold"—originally published and quickly forgotten in 1929—has been resurrected and reprinted (Covici-Friede; $2.50).

Unfortunately, "Cup of Gold" does not come off the same shelf as the other two books. It is too obviously a first novel. In it Mr. Steinbeck has not yet found himself, and it lacks the touch of story-telling genius which makes "Tortilla Flat" such a thoroughly delightful book.

It has to do with Sir Henry Morgan, that amazingly tough old buccaner who scourged the Spanish main, burned and looted Panama, and wound up a respected servant of the British

A Book a Day
By Bruce Catton

It is not likely that the summer will produce any books which for sheer delightful readability will surpass Donald Culross Peattie's "Green Laurels" (Simon and Schuster; $3.75).

Mr. Peattie has subtitled his book, "The Lives and Achievements of the Great Naturalists," and the book is nature-writing (if you don't mind that expression) in the great tradition.

The naturalist, says Mr. Peattie, is engaged in a profoundly important work: the endeavor to discover the nature of the living universe and the secret of man's place in it. He deals with mysteries and breath-taking beauties. With Darwin, the naturalist can give us a stupendous new conception of our relationship to the rest of creation; with Audubon, he can show us the loveliness that passes before our eyes unsuspected; with Linnaeus, he can reduce to order what had seemed an incomprehensible jumble of unrelated facts.

So Mr. Peattie proceeds to review the careers of a group of these great men, to interpret them for us, and to show us the world as we can be seen

Former Big Shots in the Business World

Editorial By BRUCE CATTON—Cartoon By HERBLOCK

Booming Business Has Conquered Depression

SEVERAL years ago, when the picket fires of our economy seemed to be flickering out against the approaching night, someone asked an economist when the depression was going to end.

"It will end," he remarked dryly, "about six months before we realize that it has ended."

Looking about this broad land today, one is forced to wonder if it isn't about time for us to wake up and realize that something happened to us some six months ago.

For the America of 1936's midsummer does not have the look of a land that still is bowed down under the weight of calamity. Wheels are turning as they have not turned in years, factory chimneys are contributing their agreeable mugginess to the city air, and people are busy once more and act as if they were going to be ever busier.

Let us, as some statesman or other used to say, have a look at the record.

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production reached 100 in April and has gone higher since then—the "100" being the level of 1923-25 activity.

Index numbers of the Department of Commerce, using those same pre-depression years as a base, show automobiles at 130 electric power at 121, petroleum at 142, and steel ingot production at 94.

Building contract figures are up. Production of copper and bituminous coal is far ahead of the same period last year. Steel has gone close to 1929 levels.

The "summer slump" has failed to materialize. Freight car loadings have risen. The Johns-Manville Co., which produces building materials, foresees a full decade of rising construction just ahead.

Now there are a couple of things in connection with all this that need to be noticed.

The first is the fact that 1936 is an election year. In an election year business is supposed to go stagnant—to pull in its horns fearfully in a natural reaction to the ranting and welkin-ringing of the politicians.

Something has happened to that old myth. This campaign does not seem to be worrying anyone. Business is going ahead, sales are increasing, production is booming, and all the indices of good health are becoming more and more clearly visible.

Election year, apparently, is just one of those worn-out bugaboos that don't frighten people any more.

The second thing to notice is that the American economy seems to have produced its own refutation for the prophets of doom who have given their vocal cords so much exercise in recent years. The bottom hasn't fallen out of everything, after all. In other words, there is life in the old girl yet.

Better times have arrived; really good times are not far ahead. If we can forget our fears, there is nothing to keep us from moving in on them in short order.

When Cecil B. DeMille was being publicized for the bathtub scenes he invariably worked into all his pictures, press correspondents called for an interview and were told they'd have to wait; Mr. DeMille was taking a bath. But the director called to the men to come in, he'd talk from the tub.

This Holds Water
The stunt, if it was a stunt, wasn't mentioned in any stories.

Dog Gone!
Shirley Temple really did lose her dog a few weeks ago. Publicity men began calling the 300-odd correspondents in Hollywood. "Corky is gone," they announced sadly. "Corky is a Scottie and belongs to Shirley Temple, and she's heart-broke."

"—and how is the fiction business this morning?" interrupted each listener. "And why don't you go out and buy poor Shirley Temple a nice new doggie?"

The Temples but ads in the papers, and Corky was brought back all right.

One Cherry Blossom

went to the station for questioning. The story was a natural for publicity purposes, but not a line was printed. Sounded too good to be true.

Love Re-Discovered
To go back to the subject of summer reading: it just occurs to me that "Mother of the Bride," by Alice Grant Rosman, is pretty nearly the archetype of proper vacation literature. It is smooth and unpretentious, just heavy enough to keep you from going to sleep, but not heavy enough to disturb your rest.

It tells about an English matron who, marrying off her daughter to a handsome young army officer, is impatient for the ceremony to be over so that she can at least leave her own husband. Hubby, it seems, cheated on her once, years ago, and since then she has been a wife in name only, holding the marriage together solely for daughter's sake.

But as our matron scurries about in the hustle and bustle immediately preceding the wedding she slowly makes two discoveries: first, that her husband is still in love with her, and second—oh, sure, you guessed it.

The upshot, of course, is that she doesn't leave him after all, and her marriage gets off to a new start. And something like that, my friends, is my notion of a vacation book.

Hollywood
By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD — The movie press agents, most of them, have hollered "wolf" too often. And now, when certain types of stories actually occur, nobody will believe or print them.

The trees languished and, for a while, seemed on the point of death.

One day the ranch foreman telephoned Griffith at the studio and told him there was a blossom on one of the trees. A single, hopeful bloom.

Griffith was directing a big, expensive picture, but he dropped everything and told all the players and workmen to go home.

Then he jumped in his car and sped to the ranch. News gathered refused to pay the slightest attention to such an incredible tale.

Lizard in Hiding
At Paramount a cameraman had trouble with his film, which buckled, and the first rushes showed mysterious blotches. Nobody could guess the difficulty, so the camera was sent to the repair shop.

It was taken apart, and out walked a lizard, a lizard that probably had moved in when the camera was being used in New Mexico on another picture.

This incident wasn't even offered to the press.

Little Pests—Big Troubles
Flies in the sound equipment, sparrows in the rafters, and extras snoring between piles of props have ruined many a scene and created a lot of excitement. An agitated fly may make a noise like a buzz saw on the sound track, and the gentlest snore may be picked up by the recording system.

Lumberjacks Win 2 From Sheridan

Locals Sweep Double Bill From Visitors at Fair Park Sunday

The Williams Lumber company baseball team had an easy time Sunday in taking both ends of a double-header here from Sheridan, 7 to 2 and 13 to 0.

The double win stretched the Lumberjacks winning streak to nine straight.

Elliott received credit for the first game, allowing the visitors six singles. McDowell shutout Sheridan in the second contest with a two-hit pitching performance, his best of the season.

McDowell also led the batting attack with a triple and two singles. Owen, Sheridan catcher, was removed from the game late in the second battle when a foul tip from the bat of Raymond Robins struck the catcher, badly bruising his ankle.

Both contests were loosely played. Sheridan players committed seven errors in the first game and five in the second.

Raymond Robins, colorful Hope first sacker, provided much humor throughout the two games.

The Lumberjacks were to play Taylor at Taylor Monday afternoon. Wednesday they go to Nashville as a feature of the peach festival there.

Texarkana will come here next Sunday.

The score by innings:

Sheridan 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—2 6 7

Hope 1 1 1 1 0 2 0 0—7 6 2

Batteries: Hope—Elliott and Russell;

Likewise, there isn't correspondence in town who'll print a story that a star, made up for a costume picture, had trouble gaining admittance to a studio because the gatekeeper failed to recognize him. That's old stuff, like yawns about night janitors who sweep out stars' dressing rooms, but never a star.

Such things have happened. But I'll never believe them a second time.

MARVIN BROOKS NORFLEET
Former State Senator
Forrest City, Ark.

To the City Voters of Arkansas:		To the Rural Voters of Arkansas:
As State Senator, 1931-33 sessions, Marvin Brooks Norfleet now candidate for Attorney General fought successfully for the taxpayers in the cities and towns of the State for their relief from burdensome annual payment of real estate taxes incurred as bonded indebtedness against their homes and realty for the construction of the city and town streets on the State Highway System. His view was that the State should pay for all its highways and he authorized Act No. 248 of 1931 providing payment of the outstanding street bonds from State revenues. The principle of this law was carried into the existing Highway Refunding Law, Sections 12 and 13. The total principal of the State Aid throughout the State exceeds $5,000,000.00. He procured the New York bond attorneys' approval of this law that its operation would not interfere with the highway refunding of the State. This relief is broadcast throughout the State, as follows, to-wit:		As State Senator, 1931-33 sessions, Marvin Brooks Norfleet now candidate for Attorney General fought successfully for the rural citizenship of the State including the desired and greatly beneficial return of State Revenues to the counties for the improvement of rural mail routes, county roads, school bus routes and farm to market roads so that much needed road and bridge work could be done in the rural sections of the counties for the benefit of the school children now generally required to travel substantial distances to school and so the farmers could have better roads over which to carry their products to market. He fought this measure through the State Senate, Senate Bill No. 224, Act No. 48 of 1933, as leader for those seeing the necessity for the use of State revenues for this worthy need and while there have been some changes in this law since its passage its principle is still in effect as carried into the Highway Refunding Law. ## All-Star Fight Card for Thursday Night

LaRance, LaRue, Moran and 'Unknown' to Meet in Local Ring

An all-star wrestling show is promised Hope fans Thursday night at the South Walnut street arena. Tricked over the original card book of for Hope this week in which Promoter Mauldin denounced as "second rate bums," he arranged in a telephone conversation Monday with Little Rock match makers for a better cast.

The improved show specifies a $35 guarantee on the part of Mauldin, in which he was required to ante up $20 for the main event and $15 for the grapplers in the semi-final. Speedy LaRance, who greatly impressed in his first match here two weeks ago against Frankie Hill, will appear in the main event. His opponent will be a masked grappler, and a top-notch at that, Mauldin said.

The semi-final will be between Salton Moran, Pacific coast meanie, and John LaRue, former Oklahoma A. & M. grappler and wrestling partner of LaRoy McDuff, world's light heavyweight champion.

LaRue is a scientific workman. Moran is classed as one of the meanest of the meanies.

In the opening preliminary five local negroes will appear in a battle royal. Three of the battlers had been named Monday. They are Toughie Reno, Johnny Clark and Jimmie Phillips. The other two will be announced later.

Nolan (Tootsie) Cargile, local amateur, who scored a knock out over L. A. Stanley, Jr., of Palmos last week, will appear in the second preliminary, provided a suitable opponent can be found.

Promoter Mauldin announced that admission prices would remain the same in hopes of packing the stadium to capacity.

How to Locate Two Comets Flashing Through Sky

Everybody's looking up these nights in search of two comets that have come close to naked eye visibility. One is Kaho's comet, discovered recently by a Japanese astronomer of that name. The other is Peltier's comet, located last May 15 by a young Ohio star-gazer. If you have sharp eyes, you can see Peltier's comet as it rushes through the eastern sky along the path shown on the star map above. Dates on the path give positions where the comet may be found at these times. It will be brightest and nearest the earth (close to 16 million miles) on Aug. 4. Nothing yet is known about Kaho's comet, but it can be seen, with the aid of field glasses or a small telescope, low in the western sky, just below the Big Dipper. This map is distorted slightly to include the sky area in which both comets appear. Hold the map before you, facing north, then turn toward the west for Kaho's comet and east and southeast for Peltier's comet. Picture at upper right is that of another comet, Morehouse's, taken through the powerful telescope at Yerkes Observatory.

720 Books Banned by Irish Republic

Noted Authors on List Proscribed by Irish Free State Censors

DUBLIN.—(P)—A total of 720 books have been banned as unfit for the Irish to read, according to a list just issued by the Free State's censorship board.

Hundreds of modern writers are on the list, including Ernest Hemingway, George Bernard Shaw, Sinclair Lewis and Vicki Baum. Some Irish authors are banned as well.

Number one on the black list is Maurice Dekobra, well-known French writer, nine of whose books are prohibited as offensive to morals. Close behind is Marie Stopes, noted British birth-control propagandist, with eight banned, followed by Colette, writer of French romances, with six, Richard Arlington, five, and Aldous Huxley, four.

Other noted names on the list are H. G. Wells, D. H. Lawrence, Somerset Maugham, Bertrand Russell, Louis Golding, Eric Linklater, Gilbert Frankus and Storm Jameson. Irish authors are represented by Sean O'Casey, Liam O'Flaherty, Sean O'Faolain and Con O'Leary.

WITH THE LADIES

By Helen Welshimer

To be practical, where did jealousy ever get anyone anyway? Or it might be more apropos to say: What did it ever get anyone? Certainly not the heart and hand of the desired object!

Perhaps there is an answer in the diary of Mrs. Ruth Freed, whose affairs became a matter of investigation following the murder of Audrey Vallette, a girl Chicago police believed had a yearning for Eddie Freed.

Mrs. Freed's diary reads like a war record. "Had a big fuss," "We had an awful fight," "He slugged me and me had a big fight." She goes on to tell of the girls' telephone numbers she found in Eddie Freed's pockets, of the manner in which he would dress and leave home, scarcely speaking to her; of the time when she called him at the garage and was greeted by another girl's name.

Both Were at Fault

Mrs. Freed was jealous. She tried to keep him from all other women. She didn't realize that the fault lay not in them but in herself. Herself—and Eddie Freed. If he wanted a mis-cellaneous harem, not all the members of all the police forces could stop him. She could have saved herself much worry had she been aware of this.

After all, no one person can possess another. Love must be a gift, not an obligation. It must be free as the wind, and when it is, if it is treated with affection, intelligent and respect, it will not go out of the garden and blow in the lawns down the streets. Ecstasies pass with the months and years, but there is a deeper, richer comradeship and understanding which each if a man and woman truly love each other.

Infatuation Short-Lived

That phrase "for better, for worse," may include a slight infatuation here or there, human emotions being flexible. An infatuation is brief. The core of love is not injured. A wise wife knows this, smiles, and meets the occasion. She does not grow hysterical. She remains adult.

Win it is not infatuation that she must combat, but a real desire on the part of her husband to forsake her for someone else, the real test comes. If, having done her best to preserve her husband's love, she finds that it has

CLUB NOTES

Mr. Pleasant Denning, club met with Mrs. W. W. Porterfield on Friday, July 3. Eighteen members were present and two visitors. Miss Melva Bullington our new home demonstration agent came and after all parts of the regular program were carried out demonstrated the making of frozen desserts. Miss Bullington, then with dignity worthy of the respect with which she holds her love for the man she married, she might as well let it go. It couldn't possibly be worth anything to her any more.

True, there are responsibilities and obligations which often cause a wife to keep her husband as a financial annexation. If a wife has failed to uphold her part in the relationship, the realization that she has lost through her own incompetence is a bitter pill to swallow.

Could Strive to Keep Love

Certainly if she can win back her husband she should! He loved her and wanted her or he wouldn't have married her! He asked her to bring him love, comradeship and understanding. Unless someone else has brought them and grounded them well he will turn back to the woman of his first choice.

But if he is gone—either because she failed or he was never worth the keeping—it is better to let him go! A wise woman will build a new life for herself.

Mrs. Freed might have known that she was holding to quick silver—quick silver that remains stationary only when it is not grasped! Love can not be forced. If it is already in the keeping of the one who attempts to command, it will go away. If it is not there, it will not come near. Love must be free. Then, if it is sincere, intelligent and right, all the doors may stand open, but it will never look up to notice.

So Much for Love

by HARD JONES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HELENA DERRICK, youthful head of the women's apartment department of Helvia's store, goes on a week-end party at Great Mountain Lodge. There she meets handsome PETER HENDERSON. It is a case of love at first sight between them. Peter asks Helena to marry him, and the ceremony takes place.

Later the crowd goes swimming. Peter makes a reckless dive and is seriously injured. Lugging between life and death, he asks Helena to marry him. Helena agrees to do so, but she must wait until she has a large fortune, including the Henderson department store. Helena's beautiful LEAH FRAZIER who had expected to marry Peter and realizes that he is an enemy. Peter's uncle, Roger Hargens, manager of the store, is also hostile.

Helena decides to take over management of the store. JOHN LASSITER, banker, and Courtney are her allies. Leah Frazier tells Helena that unless she leaves town Leah and her friends will boycott the store.

This makes Helena more determined to win her fight. HARVEY JAMESON, in charge of the hardware department, assures Helena that the employees are with her. John Lassiter invites Helena to attend the Sunshine Club ball.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER X

AS John Lassiter had insisted, the annual Sunshine Club ball was the biggest party of the year. The whole town took part, but the affair was staged by what were known as "the older families"—ably and excitedly assisted by a goodly number of families who hoped one day to be included in that category.

Helena had promised John Lassiter that she would go to the dance with him, but as the date drew near she began to wonder as to the advisability of it. "I notice that Leah Frazier and her mother are patronesses," she told Lassiter. "Don't you think it would be better if I stayed away?" Lassiter frowned. "I honestly believe that the Fraziers and their friends have been able to impress you with their importance." He put his hands on her shoulders and turned her around to face him. "Look here . . . for a whole month I've been planning on having with me the belle of the ball. I won't be cheated out of the triumph!"

AT last he persuaded her. In her little apartment Helena dressed for the party in one of the simplest evening dresses she had been able to find at Henderson's. She discovered that she was looking forward to the Sunshine Club affair.

The dance was to be held on a huge open-air platform built especially for the occasion. When Lassiter and Helena parked near the pavilion she heard the rhythmic strains of a popular tune drifting down to them. Beyond the car, countless lanterns flickered through the trees. The two sat there a moment, not moving, not thinking of leaving the car. Softly Helena began to hum. "You're more beautiful than usual tonight, Helena," Lassiter said softly.

She smiled up at him impersonally. "It's the summer night haze," she told him. "Affects the vision. . . . Shall we start?"

The pavilion was well covered with dancers, most of them young, all of them enjoying themselves immensely. Beyond them, almost at once, Helena saw a row of older men and women seated in wicker chairs along the edge of the platform. Mrs. Frazier was there, splendid-looking in a white gown and a short black fur evening coat.

"Dance?" asked John Lassiter, and Helena drifted off in his arms. They danced well together. Too well to spoil it with conversation. They had danced three times through before Helena encountered the suddenly resentful eyes of Leah Frazier.

The Frazier girl was in white, like her mother, but her gown was daring. In her faultless hair she wore a tiny gardenia. "She's truly beautiful," Helena thought. She saw Leah's arm drop from her partner's shoulder, saw her gather up the folds of the white skirt and leave the dance floor.

WHAT happened then, Helena would never forget as long as she lived. Leah spoke briefly to her mother. To Helena it seemed as if there was an almost instant exodus from that row of wicker chairs.

"I—I'll have to leave," Helena whispered to Lassiter. She felt that every pair of eyes there must be on her. Lassiter did not see what was wrong at once. Then, at the far end of the pavilion, he glimpsed the Fraziers and their friends leaving.

"I'll meet you at the car," Helena said quickly. "You—you can tell them that I'm leaving . . . that I won't spoil their party."

Lassiter held to her wrist. "Helena, you can't—" "Please let me go! People are staring at us . . ." She wrenched her hand free, hurried from the dance floor. Blindly she stumbled through the darkness to Lassiter's car.

Helena. I'd never have brought you if I—

"Of course not, John. I know that."

Wordless then, he drove her through the quiet town and back to her apartment. There he said, "You don't feel like talking tonight. But I've something more to say, Helena. Won't you have dinner with me tomorrow night? We'll go to some quiet place."

"All right . . ." She faced him, tried to smile. "It was nice of you tonight to . . . to try."

NEXT morning, in Courtney's office, she told the lawyer: "All I want is to make a success of the store."

"You're doing that," the attorney told her enthusiastically. "Your credit policy hasn't hurt business, and it's brought in payments we never believed we'd get. And the bonus system for employees is working out fine."

When Helena reached her office the telephone was ringing insistently. Taking it up, she heard Lassiter's voice. "Helena, I'm darned sorry, but I simply can't make it for dinner tonight."

"Why, that's all right," she told him.

His answering laugh was weak. "I—I want to tell you where I'm going," he said. "You might hear of it and misunderstand. I have to go to the Fraziers for dinner. You see the last time they asked me I had something to interfere. I simply didn't dare turn them down this time."

"No," agreed Helena dully. "No, you couldn't do that. Not after last night."

"Helena! Last night has nothing to do with it. You do understand how it is, don't you?"

She told him that she did, and Lassiter promised to telephone again soon. But at 6, long after the store was quiet, Helena broke. Her head in her arms upon the desk, she burst into tears.

Finally the tears stopped, but she did not raise her head. She felt too weary, too utterly alone to open her eyes upon the world. . . . There was a tentative rap at the door, and through the frosted glass she saw the outline of a man. Hurriedly she powdered, tried to rearrange her hair. Then, "Come in," she called.

Harvey Jameson stood in the doorway. "I noticed the light," he said, "and I thought maybe I could persuade you to knock off and see a movie with me. If you haven't eaten, we can grab a bite on the way." Having spoken, he seemed afraid that he might have presumed too much.

Black George

SERBIA, under Turkish rule, was being oppressed by a lawless soldiery when a young, dauntless soldier and former bandit asserted himself. His dark, shaggy locks and piercing eyes gave him the name of "Kara George," or Black George, and his boldness invited both fear and confidence.

In 1804, Kara George led a swelling army of Serbs against the Turkish soldiers and, aided by Russian opposition to Turkey, drove the Ottoman rulers out of his country. But as ruthless as was the former regime, even more so was that of Kara George. He made himself king and when his own father and brother dared oppose him he killed them.

But war with Russia over, the Moslems returned triumphantly to Serbia and Black George was forced to flee. Later the Serbs rose again, this time under Milosh Obrenovich, a more educated and diplomatic leader. Then, in 1817, Black George returned. Alarmed, Milosh informed the Turkish governor, and Kara George was killed.

Black George's profile appears with that of the last ruler of Serbia, King Peter, on stamps issued in 1904 and 1918.

A Seventeen-Hundred-Dollar Centennial Edition Heralds Your Section of Arkansas to the World!

The picture shows the scene in The Star office the morning of June 26—when the newspaper brought off its Arkansas Centennial Edition.

Five sections had been assembled—all but the “main news” which was then being run off the press—and you are looking at a stack of 25,000 eight-page sections.

Two months in the making, the production cost of this one edition was Seventeen Hundred Dollars—largest and finest newspaper in the history of the Red river country.

Its forms are knocked down.

Its type is destroyed.

Its engravings have gone into storage.

Only a few hundred copies remain—and when they pass, it is unlikely that so important an historical edition will be issued again within the lifetime of this generation in Southwest Arkansas.

Mail-Them-Away Copies

Farm of the Future

Not only a power milker, but an automatic water fountain are included in the new deal for Bossy.

What a shock awaits the housefly alighting on the electric screen.

"Shucks! Shelling corn's a cinch with this electric jigger."

Learning watt's watt in the new kitchen at Rosedale Farm. There's still no substitute for a good cook.

WASHINGTON—The farmer who comes to the capital during the next year will find a truly electrifying display awaiting him at Rosedale Farm, across the Potomac in Virginia. Installed under direction of the Rural Electrification Administration, the display shows how the hard work of farming may be cut down to the simple flip of a switch. It's a free show, with the only charge in the power lines that make life easier for Farmer J. W. Hughes and his family. In the house, the barns, the workshops, the chicken coops—a succession of electrical wonders does his bidding. Even the fences, consisting of a single strand through which charges are sent at regular intervals, shock the livestock into keeping out of the corn. And flies trying

Edward Jack McCabe on University Honor Roll

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Edward Jack McCabe, Hope, freshman in the University of Arkansas college of arts and sciences, has been named on the spring semester honor roll by Dean V. L. Jones of the college of arts and sciences. McCabe's semester grades averaged 4.80, under the University grading system in which "A" equals 5, "B" 4, and "C" 3.

Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals won letters in baseball, basketball, football, track and tennis, while attending Carteret (N. J.) high school.

A New Record for Increase of Japs

Brown Men Gaining in Population at Rate of Million a Year

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Correspondent
TOKYO—(P)—With little brown babies arriving at the rate of more than 250 an hour, Japan's natural increase in population during 1935 was the greatest in history.

For the second time her annual growth passed one million. It was 1,028,623 during the year, compared with 1,007,398 in 1932, the previous record year.

These figures show there is no relaxation in the pressure of population on the resources of Nippon. Japanese social scientists explain by that factor the restless striving of this eastern empire against all bonds its conquest of Manchuria, its military and economic penetration into North China, its plans for economic advance into the South seas and its unceasing fight for world markets.

Emigration Negligible
The figures are those of the cabinet's bureau of statistics. They apply only to Japan proper, excluding colonies such as Korea and Formosa and the newer dependency of Manchoukuo.

Natural increase means simply the margin of births over deaths. Emigration and immigration are on such a small scale as to make no essential difference.

In 1935 there were 2,190,691 babies born in Japan, 146,874 more than in 1934. Deaths were 1,162,068, a decrease of 72,525 from 1934. The natural increase for 1934 was only 808,224.

Per Capita Increase Drops
In one respect 1935 fell below the previous record year, 1932. Last year's natural increase was at the rate of 14.85 per thousand, whereas in 1932 it was 15.20.

The official census of October 1, 1935, showed the population of Japan proper to be 69,251,265. That count gave the population of the whole empire—excluding Manchoukuo—as 97,694,628.

Population increase in the colonies more than keeps pace with that of the homeland. Some time in 1936 the population of the Mikado's realm will pass the 100,000,000 mark.

Ring Donated to Poland Returned

Example Borrowed From Italy, But the Emergency Isn't So Great

WARSAW, Poland — (P)—General Edward Rydz-Smigly, Pilsudski's political heir, as Polish "strong man," has refused to follow the example of Mussolini who accepted Italian wedding ring to help carry on war in Ethiopia.

On answer to an appeal of the war minister for extra funds to complete Poland's armaments, a couple sent their wedding rings to the war office. A few days later they got them back with a letter from General Rydz-Smigly.

He had been much moved by their offer, the generalissimo said, but after thinking the matter over he had decided "such a donation is something like the last cartridge in the rifle of a soldier, which must be used only in extreme necessity."

East Indian Files Greatest Lawsuit

He Claims All India, to Tune of Four Trillions of Dollars

NAGPUR, India. — (P)—A suit for four trillion dollars has been filed in the high court here by a wealthy Indian against the British government.

It is the largest suit ever brought in this country, and may constitute a world record. The Indian is suing through the Secretary of State for India.

The petitioner claims that his father-in-law died in London and appointed the Secretary of State for India his trustee to property in India and elsewhere, including two gold mines and three oil wells. The petition adds that if the money is not immediately available he will accept property of equal value.

The sum is approximately 10 times the size of Chancellor Neville Chamberlain's 1935 British budget.

Well, first off, all cigarettes are not alike...not by a long shot. Now Chesterfields...they are milder because they are made of mild, ripe tobaccos...both home-grown and Turkish. They age these tobaccos for two years to take out all harshness. These tobaccos are not only blended but cross-blended...this brings out the better taste of each tobacco. It welds the different flavors into one better flavor. It helps to make Chesterfields taste better. When you smoke a Chesterfield you realize they're not like others...They Satisfy.
